

A guide to DISCOVER MORE

Tips for 'Everything' search in Discover More

- Spend some time thinking about the keywords in your assignment
- Think about acronyms or abbreviations
- You can also search for people, places, organisations, charities
- Use * to find any ending of a word e.g. child* will find childhood, children, etc.
- Use ? to replace a letter in a word (this can help with American spellings) e.g. organi?ation for organisation or organization
- Think about the subject more broadly e.g. obesity, over-weight, BMI, calories
- You might want to limit your results to Scholarly & Peer-Review
- Limit the Publication Date to the span relevant to you
- Remember we have excluded Newspapers and Book Reviews - if you want these click to see them
- Remember if you want to find an electronic journal title use the A-Z. They are not part of a 'Find Everything' search

Phrase searching

By putting double quotation marks " " around your set of words you will search for the exact words in that order. For example to find items about social media, enter "social media".

Advanced search screen

Click on the down arrow to get to the advanced screen

You can use the advanced search to be more specific in your searching. Using the advanced search will help you if you need a specific journal article from your reading list.

Click to return to the basic search screen

Select the field you want to search

Select a date range

If you want you can combine search terms and the name of a publication and date range e.g. articles about screening for Down syndrome published in the British Journal of Midwifery since 2011
