

Taking notes from books and journal articles

Use this template to help you to record the kind of information needed for your reference list or bibliography. The following examples are based on the Edge Hill University Harvard Referencing guide, however referencing styles vary across the university and you should check your module handbook for guidance.

Taking notes from a book, you should record:
Author(s) or Editor(s) Surname		Initials
Year of publication
Title of book
Place of publication
Publisher
Example: Atrill, P. & McLaney, E. (2013) Financial accounting for decision makers . 7th ed. Harlow: Pearson
Taking notes from an edited book (a collection of chapters by different authors). In addition to noting all of the above information, you will also need to make a note of the authors(s) of the chapter (surname followed by initials). Don't forget, these are the names that will appear in the left hand column of your reference list/bibliography. See example bibliography in the EHU Harvard Referencing guide: http://bit.ly/12UIHp2
Chapter author(s)
Title of the chapter
Page reference (use p. if a single page and pp. if the chapter includes more than one page)
Example: Willats, J. (2010) 'The Draughtsman's Contract: how an artist creates an image' In: Collins, J. & Nisbet, A. (eds.) Theatre and Performance Design: a reader in Scenography . Abingdon: Routledge. pp. 21-32.
Taking notes from a journal article
Author(s)
Surname		Initials
Year of publication
Title of article
Title of journal
Volume number	Issue (may be number, month or season)	Page numbers
Example: Geist, E. (2010) 'The Anti-Anxiety Curriculum: Combating Math Anxiety in the Classroom' Journal of Instructional Psychology . 37 (1) pp. 24-32.

Taking notes from the text: Remember to record page numbers if you're noting direct quotations (word for word). Making your own notes (paraphrasing) is better because it shows that you understand what you're reading and can translate it into your own words.
