

What are Springer Journals?

Springer Journals is a database providing access to over 1200 multidisciplinary Journals. This resource is of particular use to Business and Social Science related disciplines.

How do I access Springer Journals?

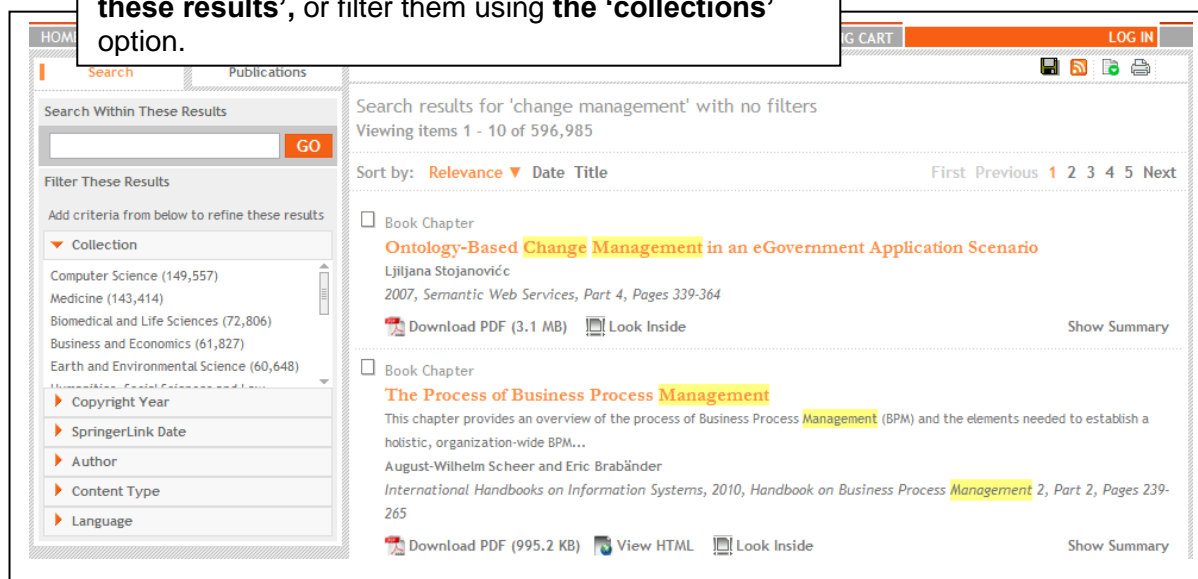

- Like all our electronic resources, Springer Journals are accessible via the Library Catalogue.
- Enter 'Springer Journals' in the search box, choose 'Electronic Library' from the right drop-down menu and click 'Go'.
- Connect to the database by clicking on the link in the centre of the screen.

How do I search Springer Journals?

Enter your search terms into the 'Search For' box and click on 'GO'.

You can refine your results by opting to 'Search within these results', or filter them using the 'collections' option.

Refining your results

You can further refine your results by choosing the 'Copyright Year' option. This option allows you to find the most up to date and relevant information.

The screenshot shows a search results page. On the left, there is a sidebar with search filters. Under 'Filter These Results', 'Collection > Business and Economics' and 'Copyright Year > 2012' are selected. Below this, 'Add criteria from below to refine these results' shows 'Subject' expanded to 'Economics/Management Science (6,715)' and 'Business and Economics (5,613)'. The main content area shows search results for 'change management' with filters for 'Business and Economics' and '2012'. It displays 'Viewing items 1 - 10 of 7,186' and 'Sort by: Relevance Date Title'. The first result is 'Climate Change and Sustainable Management of Water Resources' by Golda A. Edwin and G. Poyyamoli, published in 'Climate Change Management, 2012, Climate Change and the Sustainable Use of Water Resources, Part 3, Pages 431-447'. Action buttons for 'Download PDF (1.8 MB)', 'View HTML', and 'Look Inside' are visible, along with a 'Show Summary' link.

Saving and Printing an article

From this page you can now Download, Save or Print your document. Note that the cover page of the journal is displayed for reference.

The screenshot shows an article page for 'Employee perceptions of management relations as influences on job satisfaction and quit intentions' by Stephen Frenkel, Karin Sanders and Tim Bednall. The page is from the 'ASIA PACIFIC JOURNAL OF MANAGEMENT', 2012, DOI: 10.1007/s10490-012-9290-z, marked as 'Online First'. A thumbnail of the journal cover is shown on the left. Below the article title, there are buttons for 'Download PDF (360.4 KB)', 'View HTML', and 'Permissions & Reprints'. At the bottom, there are links for 'REFERENCES (107)', 'EXPORT CITATION', and 'ABOUT'. The 'Abstract' section begins with the text: 'In this paper we use a relational approach to investigate how employee perceptions of their relationships with three types of managers—senior, line, and human resource managers—are related to employees' job satisfaction and intention to quit. Based on an employee survey (n = 1,533), and manager network data (n = 140) in ten organizations operating in Australia, we found that the extent of agreement between employees' perceptions of their relations with senior and line management was positively related to these'.
